

Company history

In 1991, Edgar Ansmann established in his garage the basis for the company that is today a worldwide innovator in its own field.

ANSMANN has increased to one of the most known manufacturers in mobile energy. In this short time, the company has expanded to be a leading manufacturer in this area. High performance products at a fair price and the best local service are the key to their success.

In this time, the number of employees has risen up in the same way as the business premises. Worldwide more than 300 employees are caring “for energy“. The product ranges always try to match the fast changing requirements of the market.

ANSMANN AG

In July 2007, an important development for the future of the company took place: ANSMANN ENERGY GMBH changed to ANSMANN AG.

With this step, the company’s founder Edgar Ansmann, (majority shareholder and chief executive officer of the corporation), wants to offer a real tangible way for the employees to get a real share in the company’s future success. ANSMANN AG will not be listed on the stock exchange.
